BLESS, O Lord,
this House, set apart to the glory of Thy great Name
and the benefit of Thy Holy Church; and grant that Thy Name may be worshipped therein, in truth and purity, to all generations. Give

Thy grace and wisdom to all the authorities, that they may exercise holy discipline, and be themselves patterns of holiness, simplicity and self-denial. Bless all who may be trained therein; take from them all pride, vanity and self-conceit, and give them true humility and self-abasement. Enlighten their minds, subdue their wills, purify their hearts, and so penetrate them with Thy Spirit and fill them with Thy love, that they may go forth animated with earnest zeal for Thy glory; and may Thy ever-living Word so dwell within their hearts, that they may speak with that resistless energy of love, which shall melt the hearts of sinners to the love

of Thee. Open,
O Lord, the hearts and hands of Thy people, that they may be ready to give and glad to distribute to our necessities. Bless the founders and benefactors of this House, and recompense them with the riches of Thine everlasting kingdom, for Jesus' sake.—Amen.

Regulations.

EVERY person producing to the Faculty satisfactory evidence of his being a Candidate for Holy Orders, with full literary qualifications, in any Diocese, according to the Canons of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, will be received as a student in the Seminary.

Others may be admitted to the Preparatory Department, who produce satisfactory evidence of religious and moral character, of attachment to the Protestant Episcopal Church, and, in general, of such dispositions and habits as may render them meet and apt to exercise the Holy Ministry.

The Faculty, however, call the attention of all who desire to enter the Preparatory Department to the following principles, regulating it.

A full course, in a good College, is recommended, under all ordinary circumstances, before application is made for admission to the Seminary.

Few can safely dispense with it; and the neglect of it, where it might be had, has often resulted in life-long regret. The course of Theological study is not adapted to the untrained, or the immature; and as modern thought grows bolder, and more refined and subtle in its mingling of truth and error, our Seminaries must make their demands upon the minds of their students more severe and searching; requiring every year more of strength and culture, in those who stand at the door of the "Queen of the Sciences," and laying more of work upon them, after they enter.

It is desirable that all should at least have passed, or be prepared to pass, the Canonical Examination for Candidateship for Priest's Orders, before they come to Nashotah.

In some cases, however, it seems expedient to receive those who are not yet prepared for this Examination, and to assist them in their preparation for passing it. It is right to look for more than ordinary strength of judgment, and maturity of character, where the ordinary rule is thus set aside. Applications of this kind should be accompanied by a statement of the circumstances of age or position, which lead the applicant to seek admission without full literary qualifications. The course of study will be arranged for them with special reference to this Examination, as laid down in Canon IV, Title I, § 2. (1). It will therefore embrace "The English Language and Literature, and at least the first principles and general outlines of Logic, Rhetoric, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Physics, and History; and the Latin and Greek Languages." Young men, wishing to prepare for the Holy Ministry, are invited to correspond with the President. They are requested to read carefully, with their Rectors, Canons II, III, and §§ 1 and 2 of Canon IV, Title I, of the Digest of 1871.

CHAPEL SERVICES.

There is Daily Morning and Evening Prayer, throughout the year. On Sunday morning, the students unite with the congregation of the Parish within which the Seminary is situated, and of which the President is Rector. The Chapel Services are conducted by the President, who has the pastoral care of the students, assisted by the other members of the Faculty.

The Holy Communion is administered on all Sundays, and other Festivals.

EXAMINATIONS.

The Graduating Class is examined by the Faculty on the Rogation Days. The other classes are examined previous to the close of the annual term.

VACATIONS.

The vacation commences on St. Peter's Day, (June 29th), and continues until the Feast of St. Michael and all Angels, (Sept. 29th). There is also a suspension of recitations from the 23d day of December to the 2d day of January, both inclusive; on Ash-Wednesday, Good Friday, during Easter Week, on Ascension Day, and on the days of thanksgiving or of fasting, which may be appointed by the Ecclesiastical or Civil Authority.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE TRUSTEES.

Resolved, That the Refectory of the House be closed from July 5th to the 21st of September, in each year.

Resolved, That any student, who may desire to remain during the vacation, may be permitted to do so, and may be permitted to occupy his room in the Hall, if, in the opinion of the President and Faculty, it is expedient, and under such regulations as they may impose.

EXPENSES.

The Institution is solely dependent on the alms and offerings of the Church. Each student arranges with the President his own share of the expenses. It is understood that all who are able shall at least pay their board, from their own private means.

LIBRARY.

The Library is open daily, (Sundays excepted,) for the delivery and consultation of books. In the Reading Room are kept newspapers and periodicals, religious and secular. Occasional pamphlets, sermons, etc., are also received.

The Library numbers about five thousand six hundred volumes, and is very valuable. During the past year donations have been received from various friends, which are thankfully acknowledged. The kind attention of the friends of the Institution is invited to the Library; for, by a little aid from each one, in volumes and in means to purchase, it could easily be enlarged.

By the gift of his widow, we have received the Library of the late Rev. Henry Martyn Thompson, B.D., a graduate of the Class of 1856, who died on the 8th of October, at Menasha, in the midst of faithful work.

ELOCUTION.

Our thanks are especially due, this year, to J. W. Bancroft, Esq., of Port Huron, Michigan, through whose liberal offering, for that purpose, a course of instruction in Elocution has been given by Prof. J. W. Taverner, of New York. By this thoughtful kindness, a very admirable system has been introduced, in a most important department of a clergyman's training. It is not the least of the advantages of this method, that it will tend to perpetuate itself in the Seminary, through the full, yet simple, exercises, given for constant practice; and it cannot fail, if faithfully used, to effect very excellent results.

Location Buildings.

THE Seminary is situated twenty-six miles west from Milwaukee, on the Milwaukee and Saint Paul Railway. The road from the station, (the name of which has been changed from "Pine Lake" to "Nashotah,") leads one mile south and one mile west to the Institution. The estate (four hundred and fifty acres, which will in time become valuable, but is not now available for purposes of revenue) is on the east bank and across the outlet of the Upper Nashotah, the first of a chain of Lakes, of which the others are the Lower Nashotah and the Upper and Lower Nemahbin, tributaries, through Bark and Rock Rivers, of the Mississippi.

For quiet beauty and attractiveness of scenery, as well as for healthfulness, this part of Wisconsin is unsurpassed. Its principal features are its lakes, lying in the depressions of a gently undulating country, less level than the prairie regions and sufficiently wooded to give landscapes of variety and interest. From Government

Hill, within easy driving distance of Nashotah, sixteen of these sheets of water may be counted on a bright day. Within six or eight miles of us, in different directions, lie Pewaukee, Nagawicka, Pine, Beaver, North, Okauchee, Silver, Oconomowoc and LaBelle Lakes. Their beauty attracts large numbers of visitors during the summer season; and we are glad to welcome those of our friends who may favor us with a call, when making the North-Western tour.

The principal edifices of the Seminary are: Bishop White Hall, a large four-story brick structure, containing thirty-two rooms for students.

Shelton Hall, substantially built of stone, in which are the dining-room, the public parlor, the rooms of the Matron, the Tutor and one Professor, and apartments for the guests of the Institution.

The President's House, of stone, is a comfortable residence, and from its location on a high bluff, a prominent feature of the landscape.

The Chapel, of white dressed stone, contains sittings for three hundred persons. Besides its relation to the Seminary, it is also the parish church of the neighborhood.

The house occupied by the Professor of Biblical Literature, situated on a bluff overlooking the Lower Nashotah, is the only other building of any value. Two small brick houses, built in an inferior manner many years ago, and not worth the repairs they need, and one or two old frame buildings are among the relics of the early days of Nashotah. They are used for lecture-rooms, and for students when Bishop White Hall is full.

The following buildings are greatly needed, and will be erected as soon as the liberality of the friends of Nashotah supplies the means:

A new Hall for Students.

A fire-proof Hall with Lecture-Rooms on the first floor, and a spacious room above for the exceedingly valuable Library, which now finds a temporary home in Shelton Hall. An admirable plan has been obtained for this building, and the estimated cost of its erection is $12,000.

Three dwelling-houses for the Professors of Systematic Divinity and Ecclesiastical History, and for the Tutor.

The Seminary.

UNDER the blessing of Divine Providence, Nashotah has attained its present shape and proportions by such a gradual growth as shows it to have met a want of the times. Established as an ASSOCIATE MISSION (the first realization of this idea in the American Church) for itinerant labor in what was then the "Far West," it became a THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY—not without the forethought of the founders,—by the evident duty of educating upon the spot those young men whom the missionaries found desirous of devoting themselves to the Holy Ministry, and by the want of such an Institution in the West. As parishes grew out of the missions, and a resident ministry was settled in village after village, the itinerant system of which Nashotah had been the centre, came to its proper end, and "The Mission" (the local name by which the Institution is still known in its immediate neighborhood) remained as a Theological Seminary of constantly increasing importance, and of a General and not merely Diocesan character.

In 1841, the Rev. Messrs. (now the Rev. Drs.) ADAMS, BRECK and HOBART, the founders of the Mission, came to the village of Waukesha, Wisconsin, and began their work. The plan of operations had been arranged while they were students in the General Theological Seminary, New York, under the advice of the then Professor of Ecclesiastical History, the present honored Bishop of Maryland. Their object was, as has been said, mainly itinerant ministrations among the scattered settlers of the new Territory of Wisconsin.

It may be interesting to remember that at that time there were about 1,800 inhabitants in Milwaukee, which is now a city of 70,000; in the township of Waukesha, (or Prairieville, as it was then called) about 450; and in the township of Summit, within which Nashotah is situated, about 350 inhabitants. The rest of the territory of Wisconsin was even more sparsely settled. The population of the county of Dane, for example, in which Madison, the capital of the Territory and of the State is situated, is reported in the census of 1840 as 314; and of Fond du Lac county as 139.

In 1842, after extensive prospecting, for which their itineracy gave them ample opportunities, the clergy named established the Mission permanently upon the Nashotah Lakes, and continued their work from this centre, travelling on foot through the scattered settlements, and preaching the Gospel where they could find a hearing—sometimes in a settler's cabin, sometimes in a schoolhouse, sometimes in the common room of a wayside inn. Their habitation at this time was a "claim shanty"* built of boards, without lath or plaster, the one room of which did duty as residence, study and chapel.

In 1843 the first chapel was erected. It was a small frame building, and would hold about fifty persons. It has been several times enlarged, and after the erection of the present stone chapel was removed from its original site, reduced to its primitive size, and is preserved as a relic of the early days of Nashotah.

For some years subsequent to the location of the Mission, Wisconsin received the largest share of the great tide of Western immigration. The hamlet rapidly became a village, the village grew into the dignity of an incorporated city, and the primeval forests gave way to the grain fields of the farmer. Resident pastors were needed where the itinerant missionary could give only occasional services. A few clergy came from the East, but their number was unequal to the need, and there was an increasing demand for missionary services in regions beyond the reach of the residents at Nashotah. Under the direction of Bishop KEMPER, who identified himself with the Mission at an early day, by fixing his residence here, and whose remains now sleep in Nashotah's consecrated cemetery, the clergy began to receive young men as students for Holy Orders. This was in 1844. It was the natural development of the work.

In 1845, the graduate who heads the list of our alumni, the Rev. GUSTAF UNONIUS, a Swede, and a graduate of the University of Upsala, was ordained for a settlement of Scandinavians in the immediate vicinity of Nashotah.

In 1850, under Providence, the work had developed to another point. This mixed labor of itinerating and teaching had continued five years. Twelve had been ordained, and permanent parishes, under their care or that of others, surrounded Nashotah. Measurably the country settled was evangelized. The frontier had advanced far to the west of Nashotah. The Rev. Dr. BRECK, anticipating its further advance, resigned his position here, and removed to Minnesota, then beginning to attract the notice of emigrants. The Rev. Dr. HOBART had returned to the East, and the Rev. Dr. ADAMS was left alone at Nashotah. The "Mission" had fulfilled its purpose; but the other work of ministerial education had grown up, meanwhile, in a providential way. The Rev. Dr. ADAMS had this work on his hands—ten Candidates for Orders, and four Preparatory Students being under his care.

The future of Nashotah was thus clearly indicated. It had grown to be a THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY. Teaching was to be hereafter the main work. With this aim the Rev. A. D. COLE, A.M., (D.D.)* a classmate of the founders, in the General Theological Seminary, was called to be the Head of the Mission, and accepted the responsibility.

In 1852 the Faculty was increased by the addition of the Rev. E. STEELE PEAKE, B.D., and Mr. LEWIS A. KEMPER, A.M., B.D., of the class of that year, as Tutors. Mr. PEAKE subsequently went to Minnesota, and is now in California, and the Rev. Dr. KEMPER still remains with us as Professor of Biblical Literature, Exegesis and Hebrew.

In 1854 the Rev. JAMES DEKOVEN, A.M., (D.D.,) became a Tutor at Nashotah, and so remained until called to be the Warden of Racine College. The next year, the Rev. J. S. B. HODGES, A.M., (D.D.,) now Rector of St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, identified himself with us as a Teacher, and remained two years.

In 1860 the Rev. HUGH MILLER THOMPSON, (D.D.,) of the class of 1852, now Rector of Christ Church, New York, became Professor of Ecclesiastical History, and held this Chair until the close of the session of 1871, when he was succeeded by the Rev. JOHN H. EGAR, A.M., (D.D.,) of the class of 1856, late Rector of St. Peter's Church, Pittsburg, Pa.

The Rev. G. G. CARTER, A.M., became Head of the Preparatory Department in 1868.

Of the students we have graduated ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-EIGHT, who have completed the prescribed course, and received on examination the degree of Bachelor in Divinity. We have also educated more than fifty who have been ordained before completing the course, and who, therefore, do not appear upon our list of graduates. Nashotah has thus been instrumental in adding ONE HUNDRED AND NINETY at least, to the Ministry. They are at work in nearly every Diocese in the land. They are found North and South; on the Atlantic and on the Pacific; and, we are thankful to say, are as a body-marked, on the testimony of bishops, clergy and laity, by devotedness, zeal, loyalty and efficiency.

Resources and Needs.

THE Revenues with which Nashotah has accomplished its work for thirty years have been the free-will offerings of Christian men, women and children. The cost of land and buildings, the salaries of Professors and Tutors, the board and necessary incidental expenses of the students have been met from this source, which has not failed, and which we believe, under the blessing of God, will not fail. Those who read this page will permit our appeal to them for a continuance of past help, and for the privilege of enrolling among our benefactors some whose attention has not, heretofore, been directed toward our work. Contributions for the various objects of expense, whether for Daily Bread, for Additional Buildings, for Endowments, or for the Increase of the Library, may be sent directly to the Rev. A. D. COLE, D.D., Nashotah, Wisconsin.

Since the days when MARTIN LUTHER sang carols around the streets of Eisenach for his living, it has been well-known that students for the Ministry are not, as a class, rich in this world's goods. Many of them make great efforts and endure severe privations to attain a suitable education, and the duty of helping them is cheerfully recognized by the Church at large. Nashotah is the Church's almoner to apply the means entrusted her, to support the young men committed to her care, and to give them a real Theological Education. Each student makes a private arrangement with the President, based on his ability to pay more or less of his share in the general expenses; but none are rejected because of pecuniary inability, if they display qualities which, in the judgment of the authorities, fit them to prepare for the Holy Ministry. The wants of Nashotah in this respect, are the same as in years past.

The BUILDINGS, which are needed, have been spoken of on page 19. The want of them is immediate and imperative.

ADEQUATE ENDOWMENTS are essential to the permanence of Nashotah. Until we receive them, our future must be more or less precarious; and we respectfully submit that the interest of the Church in Nashotah, viewed simply as an investment already made, is too great not to call for that wise outlay which will preserve it to the Church's use. The accumulations of thirty years in land, buildings, library, professors, and experience, could not be regained in a generation were the work to be suspended for a single year; while at best, so long as the Professors' salaries, expense of building, repairs, etc., are a charge upon the annual offerings, the extension of our advantages to a larger body of students is prevented to precisely that extent. One Professorship only is endowed as yet, though a beginning has been made upon a second. When we remember that a single gift of a million dollars was made recently to a denominational Theological seminary, we are emboldened to ask if there are not rich men in the Church, sufficiently interested in Nashotah to endow with $25,000 each the Professorships of Systematic Divinity, Biblical Learning, and Ecclesiastical History. A comparison of the meagre means of our Theological seminaries with the ample funds of those of the denominations is scarcely creditable to the Church.

The one Professorship, noticed above as already endowed, is that of the Peter Hubbell Professor of Pastoral Theology. It is the memorial of a good man lately deceased, who while he lived was a firm friend of Nashotah. Part of the sum was a bequest, and the remainder was added by his widow to complete the memorial. The pledge of the whole amount was placed upon the altar of Nashotah Chapel at the offertory on Trinity Sunday 1871. Our gratitude to God, and to the surviving donor, is hereby publicly expressed, and the memory of the departed will be held in lasting remembrance.

The complete Endowment of Nashotah requires, in addition to the Four Professorships, a fund for buildings, repairs, additions to the Library, and other necessary expenses. It is always to be remembered that a Theological Seminary has no profits from tuition, as a successful College has, and consequently no accumulations out of which to provide these disbursements. This fund should be from $50,000 to $100,000.

There is needed also an Endowment for the Head of the Preparatory Department—a part of our work which experience shows it to be impossible to give up. The course in this department is special in its character, and intended for a class of men whose thoughts are turned towards the Holy Ministry, at an age when it would be unadvisable to send them to a college organized and appointed for the instruction of younger persons. The responsible position of Head of this department should be in the hands of a first-class man, and the endowment should be equal to a Professorship, $25,000.

In this connexion, another feature needs to be provided for. Assistant Teachers are required for the Preparatory Students, and with the employment of some of our best graduates in this way, there may be combined most advantageously a post graduate course, devoted to special departments of profounder study in Theology. To accomplish this result we desire to create Fellowships, open to the more talented graduates, after their ordination, to be held from one to three years,—the incumbents employing their time, as the Fellows of the English Universities, in both teaching and study. There should be at least three of these fellowships. An endowment of $5,000 each would yield a sufficient income (board being provided as a consideration for teaching,) for the necessary wants of an unmarried man of studious habits. The effect of such a provision in raising the standard of Theological Learning is evident at once, and is an

For the supply of all these wants we must appeal to those to whom God has given the means and the heart to devise liberal things. A THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY differs from a college or University, not only in accumulating no profits by tuition fees, etc., but also in that its graduates remain, as a class, poor men. The Ministry, as a rule, are underpaid. The College or University educates those who inherit wealth, or attain it by success in business, or in the lucrative professions, and receives the grateful return of liberal donations from those who are able, as well as willing, to honor their Alma Mater. The ability so to do is wanting in the graduate of a Theological Seminary, and the interest of the layman is apt to be less strongly engaged, because it is not an institution of which he, as a layman, has ever been a member. We commend this consideration to the thoughtful Churchmen who may read this appeal, and beg that it may be allowed its due weight with them in their disposal of the wealth of which they count themselves the Lord's stewards.

By thirty years of honest and successful work, Nashotah has fairly earned the confidence of the Church, and the right to an endowment which will give her stability in the future. That its finances have been judiciously and economically managed, is proved by its efficient existence for so long a time. We offer the fidelity of the past as a guarantee of fidelity in the future, and claim, in reliance upon Divine grace and Providence, the opportunity to fulfil our Lord's rule, "He that is faithful in that which is least, is faithful also in much."
